

Character Design: Bar Lady

I designed a bar lady with a short dress and a pair of high heels. I kept her cloth to be simple and erased tiny details like necklaces you can see from the sketch below. I did this to make sure I can have a easier life when doing my inbetweens.

Environment Design: Bar Corner

The background didn't cost much time so the quality is not that great. there is a comfy chair, a bottle of wine on a table, a desk full of strange devices and a weird oven on the left. I actually did some design on those gadgets on the desk. I was hoping that I would have time to animate them all. Like the biggest one with a jar of wine, that is actually a machine that goes up and down to estimate the movement when bartender.

X-sheet

PROD.	SEQ.	SCENE								SHEET
ACTION	DIAL	5	4	3	2	1	B.G.	CAMERA INSTRUCTIONS
Title		1
wine glass		3
		12
	I	13
		15
		17
	D	19
	O	21
	W	23
		25
	A	27
		31
	T	33
	B	35
	N	37
		39
	M	41
		43
	i	45
	L	47
		49
	N	51
		53
	E	55
		57
		59
		61
		63
		65
Breath		67
	B	69
		71
		73
	K	75
	E	77
		79
	S	81
		83
		85
	H	87
	A	89
		91
	V	93
		95
		97
	S	99

D'source

PROD.	SEQ.	SCENE								SHEET
ACTION	DIAL	5	4	3	2	1	B.G.	CAMERA INSTRUCTIONS
	N	107
		103
	S	105
		107
		109
		111
		113
		115
		117
		119
		121
		123
		125
		127
		129
		131
		133
		135
		137
		139
		141
		143
		145
		147
		149
		151
		153
		155
		157
		159
		161
		163
		165
		167
		169
		171
		173
		175
		177
		179
		181
		183
		185
		187
		189
		191
		193
		195
		197
		199

D'source

PROD.	SEQ.	SCENE								SHEET
ACTION	DIAL	5	4	3	2	1	B.G.	CAMERA INSTRUCTIONS
		207
	O	203
	E	205
		207
	M	209
		211
		213
		215
		217
		219
		221
		223
		225
		227
		229
		231
		233
		235
		237
		239
		241
		243
		245
		247
		249
		251
Breath		253
		255
		257
		261
		263
		265
		267
		269
		271
		273
		275
		277
		279
		281
		283
		285
		287
		289
		291
		293
		295
		297
		299
		301

D'source

PROD.	SEQ.	SCENE						SHEET
ACTION	DIAL	5	4	3	2	1	B.G.	CAMERA INSTRUCTIONS
		305
		305
		307
		309
		311
		313
		315
		317
		319
	GE	321
	N	323
		325
	M	327
	i	329
		331
	E	333
		335
	N	337
	O	339
	S	341
	TH	343
		345
		347
	T	349
		351
	A	353
		357
	I	359

Moodboard & Storyboard

LIP-SYNC : Reflection

Weeks before I thought lip-sync could be easy and now, I am stuck at the mess I created and how regretful I am to look down onto lip-sync skills.

As it is a reflection, I will not list anything good I did, but all the flaws I can think of to warn myself not to do them again.

Warping lines is the most disappointing flaws I can think of. Lack of practice and clean-up causes this trouble. I should always keep in mind to keep the continuity of the line and always go back to check the relevance of the previous frame to this one, so that later my work will not look so disgusting and childish. Also, having a clear understanding of the human body structure is key to animation. Before this, I could barely draw the external outline of the human body, but I lost the correct understanding of the outline when the body parts actually started to turn. A good understanding of the internal structure, such as the composition of bones and muscles, would probably make my movements more fluid. I used to think that large, fast movements were harder to draw, but in reality, it's the small, everyday movements that tell me more about the animator. I hope I can always keep these points in mind and produce good animation in the future.

The second point is the lack of pre-production. I used to think that the pre-production didn't affect the animation itself too much, but in fact a big part of the reason why my animation looked so bad was that I didn't think deeply enough about the questions I had during the pre-production. I had doubts about my work but I didn't go deep enough to address them at all. To put it another way, I gave up thinking. This is intolerable in any learning process. My character design and storyboarding flaws led to a final output that didn't quite connect with the lip-sync, and my failure with the X-sheet doomed me to failure with the lip-sync. After this, I might be able to learn to prepare adequately and start work when everything is in place.

The third point is perhaps my own flaw. I had enough time to do a complete lip-sync project, but in order to simply look interesting, I overturned it all and tried a new idea. I sounded like I was stepping out of my comfort zone and forcing myself to learn something new, but my ideas were so naive and unthinking that I gave up what I could have gotten and chose something impractical. So I should learn to think twice before I act in my future studies.

This assignment made me take a second look at my abilities and the level I should reach in the future. Thank you very much to the instructors for their help and advice, without their help my work would have been even more pathetic. It was a very valuable experience and I learned a lot.

More Info:

The final video is down below:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mgsSi0ISnhY>

If you want to know more about this project on myblog:

<https://kanzaki0alice.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2022/03/18/living-voice-all-in-one/>

If you want to know even more about this project on myblog:

<https://kanzaki0alice.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2022/02/15/living-voice-storyboard1/>

<https://kanzaki0alice.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2022/02/18/living-voice-storyboard-character-design-2/>

<https://kanzaki0alice.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2022/02/22/living-voice3-weekend-works/>

<https://kanzaki0alice.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2022/02/25/living-voice4-background-and-x-sheet/>

<https://kanzaki0alice.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2022/03/04/living-voice5/>

<https://kanzaki0alice.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2022/03/11/living-voice6-inbetweens/>

